DETAILED ACTION

EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with applicant's representative, Mr. Joseph T. Van Leeuwen on 9/13/2006. The application has been amended as follows:

Claims 2, 9, and 16 have been cancelled.

Claims 3-5 have been amended to depend on claim 1.

Claims 10-12 have been amended to depend on claim 8.

Claims 17-19 have been amended to depend on claim 15.

1. A method of translating strings included in management definition data, said method comprising:

- locating one or more display strings within a management definition data file;
- copying each of the display strings from the management definition data file;
- determining an identifier for each of the display strings;
- writing the identifiers and the corresponding display strings to a translation template;

writing the identifier to the management definition data file;
translating the display strings written to the translation template to one or more national languages; and generating runtime files, the runtime files including the translated display strings.

8. An information handling system comprising:
 - one or more processors;
 - a memory accessible by the processors;
 - a nonvolatile storage area accessible by the processors; and
 - a translation tool for translating strings from a management definition file stored on the nonvolatile storage device, the translation tool including:
 - search logic for locating one or more display strings within the management definition file;
 - transfer logic for copying each of the display strings from the management definition file;
 - identifier generation logic for determining an identifier for each of the display strings;
 - output logic for writing the identifiers and the corresponding display strings to a translation template;
 - output logic for writing the identifier to the management definition data file;
 - translation logic for translating the display strings written to the translation template to one or more national languages; and file generation logic for generating runtime files, the runtime files including the translated display strings.

15. A computer program product stored on a computer readable medium for translating strings included in management definition data, said computer program product including program instructions that, when executed by a computer system, perform steps comprising:

locating one or more display strings within a management definition data file;

copying each of the display strings from the management definition data file;

determining an identifier for each of the display strings;

writing the identifiers and the corresponding display strings to a translation template;

writing the identifier to the management definition data file;

translating the display strings written to the translation template to one or more national languages; and generating runtime files, the runtime files including the translated display strings.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 1, 3-8, 10-15, and 17-25 are allowed over prior art of record. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Veditz et al. (US 6496793) disclose a National Language Support (NLS) system with Language Driver Identifiers (LDIDs) embedded as locale-specific descriptors within data objects. The Identifiers, which may be in the form of a system-comparable ID (e.g., ID byte), are employed by the system in several places to record the particular language (driver) which was used when a given data object was created or modified. In the event of incompatibilities, the system provides error handling routines, including a preferred interface for warning users of incompatibilities and receiving user choices in response thereof (referring to reference). Veditz et al. fail to specifically disclose the steps of locating display strings within a management definition data file, copying the display strings, writing the identifiers and the corresponding display strings to a translation template, writing the identifier to the management definition data file, translating the display strings to one or more national languages, and generating runtime files. Furthermore, it would have not been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to modify Veditz et al. in order to obtain the claimed invention. Therefore, claims 1, 3-8, 10-15, and 17-25 are allowed over prior art of record.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
